Bo Daraphant, Artist and Owner of Illegal Drip

Industry: Art and Fashion

Bo Thai is an undocumented artist from Thailand and owner of Illegal Drip, a clothing line that blends art and advocacy. Bo is also the co-founder of Monarch Mercado, a network and marketplace for undocumented people to find community, grow, and hustle. Bo graduated from UC Irvine with a degree in International Studies.

"My entrepreneurship was born out of two things: necessity—because I couldn't get hired and needed to do something on my own— But and passion for my art."

Kai Martin, Consultant

Industry: Professional Services

Kai is a native of the twin islands of Trinidad and Tobago. After immigrating to the United States, she began her U.S. educational journey in the New York City public school system. She completed her associate's degree at the Borough of Manhattan Community College and later attended John Jay College of Criminal Justice, where she graduated cum laude with a bachelor's degree in law. While currently pursuing her MPP at George Washington University, Kai provides professional consulting services in product and personal branding, small business startup, social media management, and marketing and public relations.

"The drive and the hustle just became natural to me, so once I was of age I found myself looking to learn tips and tricks. I was determined never to sit still and never say I can't do it, because I know I can always find something to do."

What has been your #UndocuHustle experience?

Answer at menti.com with code 22 09 76

- Work authorization IS required for employment, but NOT for independent contracting or business start-up.
- Employment activities are very different from entrepreneurship activities.
- Independent contractors or business owners may use an ITIN or EIN to legally earn a living in the U.S., as long as they pay taxes.
- DACA recipients will keep their SSNs forever and should continue to use these in entrepreneurship activities.
- Forms W9 and 1099 are used for tax purposes and do not require SSN or work authorization

What is your role at your current work?

What type of skills do you leverage in your role?

Answer at menti.com with code 22 09 76

- What was your field of study?
- What skills did you acquire within your field from the classes you took?
- What skills have you acquired within your field outside the classroom?
- What type of work experience do you have (paid or unpaid)?
- What do you enjoy doing for fun?

Based on these responses, think about the type of services you might be able to offer as an independent contractor.

- Use Samaschool Work Finder to identify work opportunities
- Thinks about what skills, education, training, certification, or licensing is needed to engage in this type of work
- Find marketplaces where you can sign up to find clients
- What type of services do independent contractors in your field offer? Try doing a Google search “Independent contracting for XXX majors”

- What type of services would you like to provide?
- What makes you different from anyone else doing the same type of work?
(Think about previous experience, language, cultural competency or personality traits)
- How long have you been doing this type of work (Include experience in school and outside of school)
- Why do you enjoy doing this activity?
- Use Samaschool's About Me Generator to create an "About Me" section

- Create business cards and add a QR code
 - Create a LinkedIn Profile
 - Build a website
- Consider creating a flyer/brochure to promote your services (in-person interactions)
- Reach out to friends and family to see if they need the service
- Reach out to professional connections to promote your services
- Post an ad on social media promoting your services

INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR BRAINSTORMING WORKSHEET

Revised 04/2020

You can engage in independent contracting by participating in the gig economy or offering professional services in a specific area of expertise. Use this worksheet to help you think through the type of work you can do as an independent contractor.

THE GIG ECONOMY refers to a growing segment of the labor market, in which clients contract with workers, often via apps, for specific tasks and activities. The gig economy has endless options and often does not require high educational attainment. Learn more about the gig economy and the types of work it encompasses at gigworker.com/start-here.

PROFESSIONAL SERVICES exist in a variety of industries. In addition to participating in the gig economy, individuals may choose to leverage their expertise, skills, abilities, certification, and professional and academic training to offer professional services to the public. The ability to provide them requires experience, passion for a specific type of work, and in some instances, licensing or educational attainment.

There are many different types of independent contract work you can do, allowing you to leverage all the skills, experience and knowledge that you have accumulated over time both inside and outside of school. You can start in the gig economy and work toward offering specialized professional services.

Gig opportunities include:

- Driving for car services such as Uber or Lyft
- Selling products or services on sites such as Etsy or eBay
- Performing music at paid gigs and concerts
- Working for freelance labor apps such as TaskRabbit
- Selling products such as Mary Kay or Princess House
- Renting space in your personal home with sites such as Airbnb
- Any one-time, task-based job

Professional services include:
